

Year 4 Newsletter

Read all about it!

We have recently started reading “The Iron man” by Ted Hughes and have been using this book to develop our character descriptions. Also, we have worked on creating story openings, with the aim of getting the reader ‘hooked’ and wanting to read more. We hope you enjoy a sample of our amazing writing!

One morning the happy and joyful children skipped through the old, rusty gates. It was a sunny day in the playground when the children were welcomed by the teachers. Happily, they were laughing and telling each other jokes, yet that happiness would not last for long...

Amy T

The children were joyfully playing on the vast, concrete playground. They were waiting for their teachers to come when it got to 9:10am. It was sunny, sunnier than it had ever been in England. Enthusiastically, the teachers welcomed the children into school. That’s when the sky started to turn black...

Ryan

It was a bright sunny day and children were returning to school for another day. They went to find their friends so that they could play together before the school bell rang. Suddenly, the children started to run all over the place like a football match was going on. Just then, the teachers and children heard a sound that was like a mighty, thunderous roar. They just thought it was thunder so they carried on. They couldn’t have been more wrong...

Harvey

The children and teachers were stood in the burning, hot sun. laughing and joking in the playground, the children ran around chasing each other. The teachers welcomed the children for another day in school. Gradually the children stopped because it was like the sun and rain were arguing.

Teigan

Suddenly, the vast roar became deafening and painful. The sun disappeared like someone blowing a candle out. “Quickly, get these children into school!” demanded a teacher.

Hamza

The crowds of children began to laugh for the couple of minutes before the school bell went. The children who were playing joyfully were in the scorching sun. Amazingly, it started getting a little bit chilly. Gradually, the children started feeling a little bit bewildered; soon it was cold.

Nyah

It was a cold winters day and children were shivering against the wall. Even though it was cold, children still laughed and told jokes. Rapidly, it started to rain but the children did not care. Suddenly, the children froze like ice...

Aiden

Children poured eagerly through the rusty playground gate for another day of learning. Cheerfully, they ran around; chatted; skipped, with not a care in the world. Although it was heavily raining, children were still enjoying themselves. Gradually, a slight chill filled the atmosphere and there was a rumble that was as quiet as a mouse.

Amelie

The children who were skipping joyfully came through the enormous, old school gates. They were only playing for a minute when the sun get warmer like you were swimming in France. Suddenly, there were raindrops pouring down on the pupils like glass stones falling on them.

Scarlett

The crowd of children raced through the playground gates. As they played peacefully and joyfully, the teachers enthusiastically welcomed them. The sun suddenly disappeared behind thick, grey clouds. Although it started to rain big, icy stones, the children ignored it and carried on playing. Until, a crash of lightening hit the ground...

Keira

The crowds cheered as the children warmed up on the playground. The footballs banged against the walls. The rain crashed on the backs of players like glass stones. Suddenly, Haider's bottle of water started shaking. Again, again, and again. Haider thought it might be workmen drilling. Suddenly, a thunderous roar came from the distance, before he saw two mammoth sized lampposts.

Haider

The big crowd of children, which shouted and screamed happily, laughed and joked in the playground. The rain was like sharp glass stones but the children carried on playing. Suddenly the children heard a howl and a blast of thunder like a roar. Although most people laughed, they were wrong...

Preston

One dark, windy day, St Peter's children were out playing happily. Even though Amy, Harvey, Aimee and Finlay were best friends, they called each other names in a playful way. They were all chatting joyfully, when suddenly, there was a vast crash! The children thought it was an enormous tree that had been blown down by the strong wind. The playground floor cracked a bit so the tree mustn't have been far. The wind was strong like the force of a plane.

The children were wrong...

Aimee

In the playground there was a vast crowd of children who were laughing and joking as they entered into the school gates. The joyful children suddenly paused as the sun was smothered by a thick black cloud. It was pitch black, the children presumed it was some sort of eclipse. How wrong they were...

Kenzie

It was a hot, sunny day where children ran into the playground. The playground was hot and fiery. After the sun burning, there was suddenly there was a thunderous roar coming from the distance...

Charli

The Iron mans head is the size of our class room. He is very, very beastly. His foot is as big as a single bed and his eyes glow in the dark. His vast, jagged legs cause earthquakes.

Jake.

The children who laughed and joked, went through the rusty iron gates. The teachers called enthusiastically to welcome children for another day. The blistering hot sun beamed down onto the busy concrete ground. The atmosphere was lively as the children chased each other in the playground.

Suddenly, the sound of heavy thunder began to fill the air. Suddenly, a beam of light shone through the clouds, except it didn't look like lightening. Despite this, the children were laughing, not knowing what was coming next...

Alex

The Iron Man is gigantic, he is bigger than a tower. His vast jagged legs make a mighty noise. Amazingly, his eyes are as powerful as car headlights. His head is as big as a classroom and he doesn't even have a brain.

Samson

The children who were playing joyfully on the playground were joking joyfully with their mates, while the teachers were having a coffee in the staff room. It was a beautiful day, therefore the sun was shining and it was boiling hot. The sun was like a roasting fire at Christmas. Gradually, a sound of thunder came and it went pitch black...

Isabella

The Iron Man is so enormous, he can destroy people. His vast, jagged body can always cause an earthquake. When they crash violently and thunderously it makes a big enormous BANG!

Kai

The Iron Man, which is tall and strong, can destroy everything. However he is really friendly to people. Be careful because he might stand on your car.

Helena

T

he Iron man, who is as big as three houses has come to earth. Nobody knows where he came from or how he got here. When he came, he came running which caused there to be lots of holes in the ground. The people were fed up and angry with the Iron Man.

Abdullah

The iron man is a colossal robot which is the size of four trees. Amazingly, his vast, jagged arms crash on buildings. His head is the size of our classroom. Even though he looks mean, he can be a nice fellow.

Tia

The iron Man, who is as tall as a house bites into cars with one big bite. He is beastly, mighty and immense. If you see him, you will hear a mighty thud! His head is the size of a truck and his eyes are like car head lights that shine brightly from the distance. Everyone wants to destroy him. He makes them so angry.

Finlay

The Iron Man, who destroyed the cars, is as big as a house. His head is as big as a bedroom. His body looks like an upside down triangle. The iron man, who fell down into the water, tries to eat everything that is made out of metal.

Leah

The Iron Man, who is evil, can run very fast with his rapid legs. He can climb towers and mountains. The iron man, who is an evil monster has an evil heart. The Iron man has a gigantic head even though he doesn't have a big brain!

He has eyes like the scorching hot sun.

His head is like a bedroom.

His shoulders are as broad as a shopping mall.

His hands are as big as a house.

His legs are taller than a sky scraper.

His feet are like a heavy tank.

Jordan

Then Iron Man is a big iron robot who is made out of machinery. The Iron Man is as tall as four houses. When he walks into water, the water will go all over him.

Damien

His ears are made from silver metal. The Iron Mans eyes are big like car headlights. He has two hands with fingers and thumbs. The legs are very long. The iron mans feet are the same size as a single bed.

Jamie

The Iron man has got a big, shiny head. It is made from shiny, silver metal. His legs are very long. He is as tall as four houses on top of each other. The Irons mans feet are the same size as a single bed.

Daniel

The Iron Man has a colossal chest but no heart or personality. The Iron man has a squeaky voice. He walks slowly around our school. The Iron Mans eyes are like two immense torches.

Jacob

The Iron man has a big shiny head.

His ears are made from silver metal.

The Iron mans eyes are like big shiny, car head lights.

Alisse

Thank you for reading our writing newsletter!

Don't forget to have a look at our class blog to see what we have been up to recently.

<http://blog.st-peters-farnworth.bolton.sch.uk/year4201415>